

Police Review and Parade Gossip

There are full runs of the publication at the following -

The British Library, St Pancras, with a reader's ticket, one can see that this publication under its various titles from 1893-2011. The run is complete barring any catastrophe the publication will be available to researchers for many generations to come.

"Police Review and Parade Gossip" for 1893-1933

"Police Review" for 1934-2011

Bodleian Copyright Library: There are copies within the but the online catalogue shows almost random editions but worth a try if you have access to the library. Access is probably restricted to alumni, alumnus and registered researchers.

The National Police Library: Not clear if it is a full run formerly Police Staff College Bramshill collection.

Under usual circumstances they do have procedures in place to allow people to come in and view their physical collection, if not a currently serving police officer there would be a small fee involved with running the relevant checks to allow external visitors to come on to site.

The Metropolitan Police Heritage Centre: Complete run at the Woolwich store which is not available for use at the moment but probably will be in the not-too-distant future - Covid willing!

Greater Manchester Police Museum has a substantial collection of Police Review, though it is by no means complete.

Scottish Police College:

Jane's Intelligence now the company that published Police Review until 2011. The remainder of a collection of back issues of Police Review at the HQ of Jane's Intelligence in Canada Place were partially destroyed in the February 1996 IRA Docklands Bombing in Canary Warf.

Police Federation HQ, Leatherhead has a full set.